

Medical Center of Dimmitt is pleased to announce a partnership with Forefront Telecare to provide the highest level of mental healthcare available anywhere.

Mental health conditions are common: one in five adults in the U.S. will experience such a condition in any given year. If untreated, mental health conditions cause substantial suffering in their own right, and they can complicate management and treatment of other medical conditions. Mental health treatment is fully effective as much as 80% of the time, and often much more quickly than you might think. Seeking mental health treatment is not something to feel badly about – it's just smart.
